School Trustees Stagger Bids On Building Jobs

Menlo Park Elementary School District trustees Tuesday set Sept. 22 as date for opening of bids for construction of Laurel school.

They set the same date for opening of bids on the proposed Fremont school multi use room, and set Sept. 3 as date for opening of bids on the proposed Hillview school library unit.

The bid opening dates were set after Architects Kingsford Jones and William Daseking said they though more favorable prices would be quoted, if the bids were opened at intervals rather than all at once.

Architect Jones said he felt even though the bid opening for Laurel school was later than previously scheduled by district trustees, it would allow basic construction to be well along before the winter rains set in.

The $400,000 kindergarten-through-sixth grade school is to be constructed at Edge and Ringwood roads.

Jones is also architect for the Fremont school multi-use room.

Daseking, representing the firm of Janssen, Daseking and Keller, said he believed recent "instability" in building costs would be reflected in the cost of the library, of which his firm will oversee the building at Hillview school. He estimated its cost at more than $44,000.

The trustees agreed that the call for bids on proposed additions to Oak Knoll school could be put over until a later date. Jones said plans for this job would be ready for board approval about Sept. 1.

The architects agreed that the present steel strike might contribute to some unrest in the building trades, but said their proposed buildings used little steel.

The trustees also authorized the printing of bonds, which will be sold to finance the construction projects. Trustee Kenneth Sayre, who is a bond broker, abstained from voting.

The board also authorized the district's administration to set the "order of priority" for alternates which may be added on o the basic construction jobs, should sufficient funds be available.

Woodside Sets Hearing on Budget Tonight

A ten-cent tax rate per $100 assessed property valuation will be proposed in the Woodside city budget for 1959-60 at 8 p.m. tonight at the multi-purpose room of Woodside school.

Assessed valuation of all property in Woodside is $14,724,875.

The budget committee will present an $80,050 program for the ensuing fiscal year. Budget items will be the same as those in past years, the clerk added. Largest item will be road maintenance, with $30,000 proposed for those projects. School crossings will cost the city $12,000.

If the budget is approved, the city attorney will receive an income of $3600 with a $5000 reserve for action. Five thousand dollars will go to the planning commission and $1100 for traffic control.

The preliminary budget was adopted July 9.

C of C Initiates New Series Of Projects

A 40-page directory of major organizations in southern San Mateo county is being composed by the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce.

According to Secretary-Manager Jack Flynn the guide will list names of the groups, officers and the time, place and location of meetings. "We will attempt to keep it as current as possible," Flynn said. It will be issued yearly, if the one being sponsored is a success.

Years ago, the Menlo Park Chamber put out a typed list of local organizations, but failed to keep it up to date. The project was soon dropped, Flynn indicated.

Last spring the Volunteer Bureau of San Mateo county began work on the directory. It will be ready for use sometime in the near future.

Another Chamber of Commerce project is a committee reorganization and allocation of new projects. The program of work will be based on the business climate survey taken by the Chamber last spring, recommendations of last year's committees and continued suggestions made by various members of the Chamber. The group hopes to complete the new project schedule this month.

When this has been done, the committee structure and personnel will be reorganized to suit the work at hand. The Chamber of Commerce will categorize the work, after the program has been approved by the board in September. Flynn predicted that about 13 or 14 committees will be set up, and that the number will grow to 20 or 30, as the work year gets under way.

OTHER PROJECTS

To aid the new committee chairman the Chamber is working on a list of committee manual, with the work of each group outlined in detail. The book will also list committee objectives, thus guiding the chairman on general policy.

Plans for business education day, Oct. 30, are also on the Chamber of Commerce agenda.

The organization will repeat last year's program, but gear it to high school instead of elementary school teachers. Instructors from all schools in the Sequoia High School district will be invited to study practical application of business operation and American free enterprise in local businesses.

Drunk Drivers Rarer, Say Police Here

Although no drunk driving arrests were made by either Menlo Park or Atherton police during July, the first month in which drunk drivers could expect to have their licenses automatically suspended upon conviction, Atherton's Chief Leroy Hubbard believes that the new law enforcement won't rid the road of tipsy drivers.

He points to the fact that his men already have arrested two drunk drivers in August.

"What we really need," he added, "is a good stiff penalty for drivers who drink and who drive without licenses. We have plenty of those."

But although no permanent good may result as the "scare" wears off, figures seem to indictate that July's clean bill of health this year may have resulted in some measure from the automatic suspension edict.

July, 1958, saw three drunk driving arrests in the area—two in Atherton, one in Menlo Park. And June of this year—just before the new stand was announced — showed five such arrests in Menlo Park, two in Atherton.

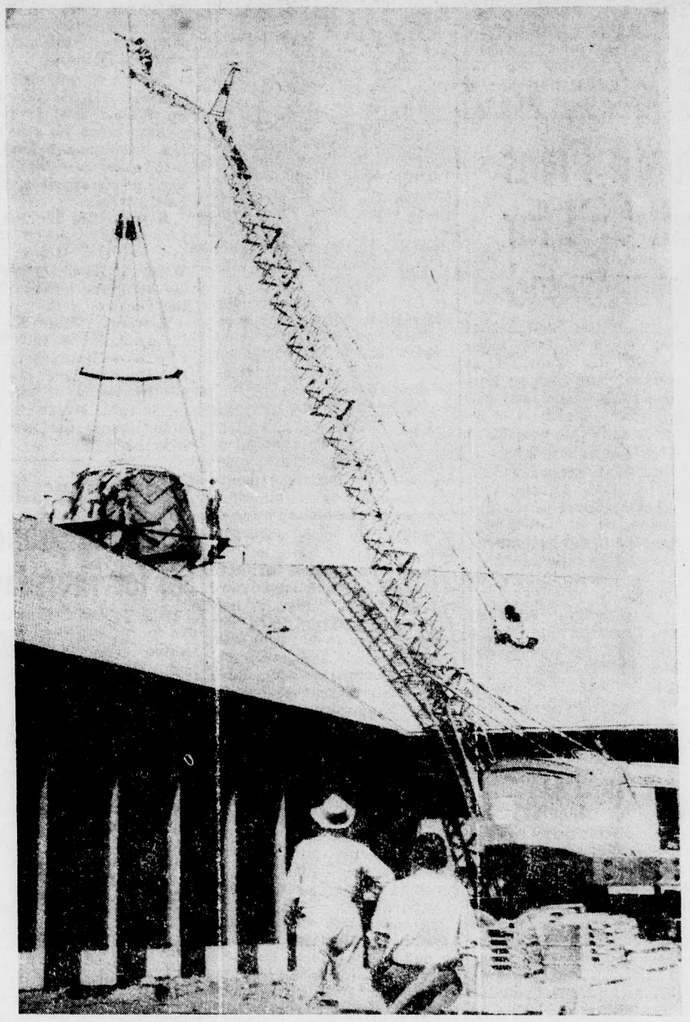

Building Figures For July Told

A $110,000 store and office building, now under construction at Santa Cruz avenue and University drive ,accounted for more than a quarter of the valuation of building projects started in Menlo Park during May, figures released by Building Inspector J. D. Steiger indicated this week.

Thirty-six permits, authorizing a total of $408,885 worth of construction were issued.

The store and office building is being built for the Draegers Investment Co.; Henry Knutzen Sons Co. are the contractors.

Eight new residences, having an aggregate valuation of $190,000, were started.

The Crowning Emblem . . .

. . . was added to the new St. Raymond's church at Arbor road and Santa Cruz avenue Tuesday morning, as workers gently placed the Cross and open-work steeple atop the building. The church is expected to be ready for occupancy by parishioners by mid-October. The Cross is 75 feet in the air; note worker atop huge crane used in the job.

RECIPES

With this issue, the Menlo Park Recorder begins a series of articles detailing some of the favorite recipes of hostesses and housewives of the area.

First article of the series, a recipe for a Spanish stew, is a favorite of Mrs. Edward H. Lea of Menlo Park.

Other recipes, ranging from those for low-budget dishes which will cheer the entire family to the more delicate snacks and viands for parties and formal occasions ,are to follow.

This week's article appears on Page 11.

'Cost of Living':

Sanitary District Board Grants 5 Pct. Wage Boost to Workers

The manager and 14 employees of the Menlo Park Sanitary District will receive a five per cent pay raise, but at no additional cost to the district taxpayers.

The salary increase was approved by the board of commissioners Monday, according to Commissioner George Angus. The district residents will continue to pay their 25 cent per $100 assessed valuation.

Total cost of the pay increase will be $4000, says Angus. The $330,947.54 budget for 1959-60, passed two weeks ago, makes provision for this addition. This figure is $35,000 more than last year's.

The salary increase followed a survey of salaries paid in other sanitary districts that indicated that the Menlo Park employees were paid five per cent less than the average.

Retroactive from July 1, the new pay will be $415 for maintenance men and $644-782 for District Manager Cedric Webster. Previous figures were $325-395 for the former group and $613-745 for the manager.

Sewer plans for 22 lots in Sharon Heights Unit No. 2 off Monte Rosa drive were also approved by the board. However, builders may not connect to trunk lines until the area has been annexed to the district.

The board also approved structural plans for the pumping station off Portola road for the Presbyterian senior citizen's home.

Need Evidence:

Postmaster Asks Parents' Aid In Fight to Ban Pornography

Menlo Park Postmaster Harry B. Morey this week asked parents who find that pornographic literature has been mailed to their children contact him with that information.

Meanwhile:

1. State Assemblyman Louis Francis (R-San Mateo) continued active in his campaign for legislation to curb the distribution of smut, aimed at "fly-by-night publishers, transporters and salesmen."

2. Local school authorities said that, as far as they are presently aware, area school grounds have not been visited by such purveyors.

Postmaster Morey's request is designed to implement a recent national drive initiated by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield. The postal department is attempting to curb immoral material received through the mail; Assemblyman Francis' proposed legislation, though only generally described ,is apparently aimed at sellers who visit youngsters in person.

Morey said that he had received no complaints from parents for the past month or so.

"In any case, the first notice we usually have that obscene mail has been received through our office, is when a parent makes a complaint.

"With such a complaint in hand, we can contact the postal inspection service for investigation of the source of the material, which might possibly be followed by prosecution in the area where the pornographic literature and/or pictures was mailed," he continued.

Both Menlo Park Elementary School District Superintendent Dr. Mel Homfeld and Sequoia District High School Superintendent Dr. Rex Turner were out of town this week.

But spokesmen indicated that school-yard distribution was not a factor here, although Assemblyman Francis, in a recent talk before the San Mateo County Citizens' Committee for Decent Literature, declared that such distribution methods were considered in his proposed legislation.

The San Mateo lawmaker stressed that reading of obscene materials among some youngsters is not confined to underprivileged areas. "The finest landscaped school yards of our fanciest suburban education institutions now provide one of the easiest markets for the callous purveyors of smut and indecency," he declared.

"The youth of America and California, inflamed by the pornographic material that is showered upon them by unscrupulous operators of sexy-girly retail centers," he said, "have created a sex-crazed segment of youthful society that has driven sex crimes to a new all-time high, with no diminishment of it in sight."

Assemblyman Francis said that "I am in favor of diverting the strength and the interests of our younger people into manly sports like baseball, bosketball, tennis, golf, and a hundred and one other satisfying activities, and I am more determined than ever to fight any business that tends to make moral and sexual perverts out of our boys and girls."

Huge Jump in Estimate Stalls Police Station Job

City Shaves 2c From Tax Rate

A two-cent cut in the Menlo Park tax rate—from 75 to 73 cents per $100 of assessed value—was put into effect for 1959-60 Tuesday night by the city council.

The drop was the result of council policy decision on dividing of the sales tax "take" and because assessed value for Menlo Park proved to be slightly higher than originally estimated.

City Manager John R. Johnson's tentative budget of $759,314 approved by the Council two weeks ago, had suggested using the 1958-59 rate of 75 cents.

But Johnson recommended the tax cut Tuesday night after the Council added about $5,000 to budget income by determining that only bond issues voted on before the sales tax went into effect could be paid off by sales tax revenues.

Johnson's original budget had included this year's police building bonds as among those that wolud be retired by using sales tax funds.

In addition, Johnson told the Council, official assessed value figures for the city were up 23.1 percent as against 22 percent estimated in the tentative budget.

The reassessment brought the city's property valuation up to $45,088,950 as opposed to the $36,000,000 of 1958-59.

City Councilman Ira Bonde said he wanted to make it clear to the public that the city is not reaping a huge harvest of tax dollars because of the increase.

Bonde pointed out that there is, in essence, a tax "increase" to be borne by Menlo Park residents despite the tax cut by the city—because total values of property have been increased so much.

Reassessment of property doesn't happen every year. Bonde said that if it hadn't occurred this year, a normal rate of increase of city property value might have been about $2,200,000. That would have meant an assessed value of about 38½ million.

The new city budget, therefore, would have to have had a tax increase of about 10 cents to cover expenditures.

The Council action in hacking two cents from the tax rate in effect lowered the tax increase to about eight cents, Bonde said.

This eight-cent boost means about $30,000 in additional city revenue, Bonde estimated, adding that "this isn't much of a 'windfall' as has been stated in the press."

Mayor William R. Lawson commented that there was "too much emphasis on the tax rate and assessed value. The real emphasis should be on how much is spent."

"And what you spend it for," Councilman Michael Belangie added.

Action in approving the budget and tax rate was unanimous.

Burgess Fund At New High With Donation

A $100 contribution to the Charles P. Burgess Citizenship Award fund has brought it to the highest total in its existence, $1345, City Manager John R. Johnson said this week.

The donation was from the Menlo - Atherton Graduation Party organization, which annually sponsors an all-night dance for graduating seniors. This year, the organization achieved a surplus and was enabled to make the donation.

Members of the committee sponsoring the party voted for the contribution, according to Mrs. Margaret Johnston of Atherton, treasurer for this year's committee.

The award fund honors the memory of the late City Councilman and Mayor Charles P. Burgess, who died in 1957.

Since its inception three $100 awards have been made to graduating Menlo-Atherton students who have shown outstanding qualities of leadership and scholarship.

The fund has continued to grow, points out City Manager Johnson, in spite of the fact that no campaign for its augmentation has ever been undertaken.

Contributions are always welcome, however, he said, and may be addressed either to himself at the Menlo Park city hall, or to Fund Treasurer L. L. Johnston at the Menlo Park Branch of the Bank of America.

Association Meets Tonight:

Plans Underway for Third Belle Haven Cleanup Drive

The Belle Haven Mutual Improvement Association is meeting tonight to put plans together for their third cleanup campaign of the year.

With president J. R. Jackson handling the gavel, the session will be called to order at 8 p.m. in the Belle Haven School multi-purpose building.

Major item on the agenda will be the cleanup drive, already set for Saturday, August 29.

Teams of volunteers will be assigned areas to cover in the house-to-house collection of trash and disposable household items.

Association officals said all of Belle Haven north of Willow road will be covered.

Spring's cleanup campaign netted a whopping total of 55 tons, all of which was transported to the county dump for disposal. Minimum charge again will be 50 cents for pick-up.

Trash containers will be limited to 50 pounds each. The weight ceiling was put into effect because one pickup item last time consisted of a barrel full of old bricks—almost too much to handle.

But everything else that's not needed around the house—old washing machines, furniture, and so on—can be picked up for disposal.

And association spokesmen asked that residents also carefully place their trash containers and other unwanted items at curbside,

Mail Route Open In Sharon Area

Menlo Park postoffice has instituted regular carrier service to the Sharon Heights area, Postmaster Harry B. Morey said this week. Residents of the new subdivision previously were required to pick up their mail at the west Menlo Park substation situated on the Alameda de las Pulgas.

Morey said that, at present, there are 28 postal patrons in the Sharon Heights area.

Delivery is by three-wheeled "mailster" vehicles

A new aerial photo map of the city of Menlo Park, based on photos made this spring, has been delivered to the City of Menlo Park and shortly will be placed in the city council chambers.

The map, approximately five by 10 feet in size, will replace an older, smaller map which has been in the council room since 1952. The latter is now out of date.

Because of the present irregular shape of Menlo Park, including recently-annexed portions of San Francisco Bay, the map also shows parts of East Palo Alto, Atherton, Woodside and Redwood City.

The map is composed of segments which have been enlarged in other prints, for detailed studies of special areas of the city.

Atherton Issues Building Permits

Thirty-five building permits were issued during the month of July by Howard Boren, Atherton building inspector.

Ten new homes, total value of $399,500 are authorized. The remaining 25 permits were issued for alterrations, outbuildings and for swimming pools, all valued at $478,537.

NEW CHURCH STEEPLE

City councilmen this week approved a variance that will allow the First Baptist Church to add a sanctuary with a 75-foot spire to the church building at Middle avenue and Arbor road. The variance was for the more than two-story height of the spire.

Police:

SEE DELAY

Menlo Park Police Chief George Potter yesterday expressed concern that the high estimate of the cost of a new police station would result in long delays in its construction.

"Our present quarters are becoming more crowded and less adequate all the time," he said. "It's a matter of opinion as to how much congestion we can stand before law enforcement efficiency suffers. We don't want that to happen."

The chief also observed that construction costs appear to be spiralling upward, and delays probably will mean even more added costs.

He pointed out that the police department's members had campaigned for the bond issue to finance construction of the new headquarters because they felt the building which could be financed for $140,000 ought to be adequate.

All-Playground Carnival Is Next Week

All the kids at Menlo Park playgrounds are hard at work this week on their booths for the big All-Playgrounds Carnival set for next Thursday, August 20, 7-10 p.m. at Burgess gym.

The Carnival is the first such affair sponsored by the Recreation Department, and will feature nine booths, each staffed by four youngsters as barkers, ticket-takers and attendants and a playground director supervising.

A crowd of at least 500 is expected and there will be prizes for everybody, according to Marilyn Field, the Department's supervisor of playgrounds and special events.

Each playground is setting up, decorating and equipping one booth for the affair, except Hillview School and Nealon Park, who each have two. Next Friday, trophies will be awarded for the best-decorated booth, the booth bringing in the most money and the best-decorated booth operators.

Tickets will be on sale at the door at one cent each and will be good for one chance at any booth. Prizes are mostly small plastic toys.

Booths to be at the Carnival are: Hillview School, dart throw and sponge throw; Nealon Park, milk bottle throw and ring toss; Willow Oaks, candle shoot; Las Lomitas, bean bag toss; Flood School, five-pin bowling; Laurel School, fish pond; Belle Haven, ping pong bounce.

Smokers Cost Themselves Estimated $150

Smokers Tuesday night set two separate fires at their homes in the Menlo Park Fire District, and cost themselves an estimated $150.

The fires, less than an hour apart, were at 136 Aster way in East Palo Alto and at 1035 Hollyburne avenue.

At 10:41 p.m. the firemen were called to the Aster way address, where Mitchell Moysard had dropped some ashes on some clothing, then put out the resulting fire before contacting firemen. Damage was estimated at $50.

At 11:30 p.m. Mrs. E. Dignor called the firemen to her home at 1035 Hollyburne avenue, where upholstery had taken fire.

Firemen said damage was about $100.

GIRLS ADMONISHED

Two girls, ages four and six, were read copies of the Menlo Park Fire district's sternest admonishments for juveniles who play with matches Tuesday, after they apparently ignited a fence at 3110 Williams street in East Palo Alto.

Council Balks At Price

Architect Kingsford Jones estimated Tuesday night that the projected Menlo Park police administration building willcost $233,698.

Since the city has only $140,000 available, the news came as a shock to Menlo Park City Councilmen. But they weren't shocked enough to be speechless.

"If we're talking about a building costing almost a quarter of a million dollars," said Councilman Michael Belangie, "then we're wasting time here."

The $140,000 estimate, made by the administration, was the basis for the successful police building bond issue passed earlier this year.

The city has not other money which could be used for the construction.

In Jones' preliminary plans presented at the Council meeting, the square footage for the building had been increased from the administration's estimate of 9300 to 15,948.

Jones said he knew the estimates were possibly more than the final cost would be but added, "I'd rather be on the high side" in making such estimates.

Jones defended the increase in area.

"We have no changed room sizes as originally estimated," he said, "but the size of corridors and storage space was too small, throwing us out of gear as far as the proposed cost factor was concerned." He also declared that "certain things" had to be added to the original plans. There was no immediate explanation of what they were.

He also declared that the cost factor of $15 per square foot for the first floor and $6 per square foot for the basement area "was too low. It may have been enough when the original estimates were made last year."

It was at that point that Belangie made his statement the Council would be "wasting time" to consider such an expensive job.

Jones said he believed the plans as drawn up represented what would be needed to provide Menlo Park with an adequate facility, but added that I'll have to take my guidance from you" on revisions.

City Manager John R. Johnson told Councilmen the pre-bond issue space and cost estimates were made only after he had made a survey of police facilities in other area cities—Redwood City, San Bruno and Los Altos.

Councilman Ira Bonde said the Council will have to go back and study the original estimates as against the new ones provided by Jones.

"It's obvious that most of the extra cost has been caused by square footage additions," he declared.

Mayor William R. Lawson asked Jones, who also designed the city library, if the procedure hadn't been the same when he made his estimates on that building.

Jones said the difference was that he had been called in before the bond issue to estimate costs in that case. The Council did not employ him until after the police building bond issue had been voted upon, Johnson said.

After the meeting, the Mayor said the conflicting footage estimates would be taken up at Tuesday night's study meeting.

"We just don't have the money to finance the building as proposed tonight," he said.

It would include such facilities as a small auditorium for civil defense conferences and safety lectures for children as well as for police department use, a holding area that could handle three male and one female prisoner at one time, separate waiting room for juveniles and their parents, interrogation rooms with one-way glass, a pistol firing range in the basement and a convenience room for use of insurance adjusters, reporters and others

Firemen Name Orchestra For Annual Ball

The music of Dick Reinhart's orchestra will provide the background for the Menlo Park Fire District's 21st annual ball to be held Sept. 19 at the Sharon estate, it was announced this week.

At the same time, members of the Firemen's Association announced, more than 16,000 envelopes have been addressed and shortly will be mailed to residents of the fire district.

The orchestra, reported Music Committeeman Chairman Captain Vincent Del Pozzo, plays nightly at a San Francisco club, it has been familiar to patrons of resorts in the Lake Tahoe area and at various Bay Area night spots for the past several years.

"The fine music which is to be provided," said Captain Del Pozzo, is our thanks to those members of the community who support the Widows' and Orphans' fund, to which all proceeds of the affair are contributed.

"We believe that this year's dance should be, as those of the past have been, an affair which the whole family can enjoy. For that reason we have selected the musical organization which is to play with the greatest possible care."

Meanwhile, Fireman Ken Trammell, head of the ticket committee, said that tickets to he dance will be mailed this week.

"We will send a pair of tickets to each household in the district," he declared, "with the exception of the relatively few addresses which do not yet appear on our records.

"Since a few homes may be missed and since many families will want more than two ducats, because a number of people will be attending the party, additional ones will be available at the door the night of the dance."

They are also available from firemen at the fire station, he said.

School Room Rent Out:

Menlo Oaks Multi-Use Plans Okayed by Ravenswood Board

Ravenswood City School District trustees this week approved preliminary plans for the Menlo Oaks School multi-purpose building, surveyed room planning at the projected School No. 11 and applied the coup de grace to a proposal that they rent space to alleviate third-grade double sessioning.

Architect Walter L. Keller of Janssen, Daseking and Keller, Menlo Park, offered the preliminary plans on the $88,990 multi-use room at Menlo Oaks. He said they were finished a week ahead of schedule.

Board members and Keller went into a discussion of the problems of cooling the building on hot days when large numbers of students are assembled in it.

Keller agreed to further study the problem, which board president Martin Packard said appeared to be evident at other district schools during the warm season.

The question of air movement came up again when trustees were given a look at the architects' layout of several classrooms in the projected upper-grade School No. 11.

Keller said the board had given him the impression at earlier meetings that they were beginning to think in terms of some type of air conditioning for schoolrooms.

Board member Joseph Violette said they weren't seeking mechanical air conditioning so much as an exploration of other methods of keeping the school buildings cool.

Superintendent of Schools Stanley Schnepple, asked by the board for his opinion, said that more and more industry and office workers are getting at least a minimum amount of air conditioning and that there "may be a possible fallacy" in not considering this for schools.

The space-rental proposal, considered by the board at last week's study session, was formally rejected by the board in a resolution moved by Mrs. Charlotte Roden.

The unanimous action followed a question and answer session between Robert J. Neal, a resident of the Willow School area active in the attempt to take third-grade children off double sessions, the board and Schnepple.

The board went over points of Schnepple's report on the prospects and costs of renting space in University Village Shopping Center. He estimated the total cost of getting the rental space, and making it ready for use at more than $10,000 and possibly as much as $25,000 for the six months it would be used.

Violette said he thought if the school desk problem for the rooms could be solved, the proposal might be feasible — but he added there "doesn't seem to be a chance" that the desks could be provided without great expense to the district.

Getting the desks from those that would be needed for future classroom construction would require state approval, he indicated, and that's unlikely.

Schnepple estimated that about six months might be needed, anyway, to get delivery.

And Mrs. Roden said "I don't think we dare tamper with the state school aid program."

Mrs. Roden and Mrs. Margaret Cochrane, who seconded her motion, also pointed out the dangers of traffic at the shopping center. Mrs. Roden stid she made the motion killing the proposal mainly on the basis of the rental space location.

Neal, who suggested that more desks might be obtained by a possible rental deal with other districts, said that a cost of $12,000 for the space, broken down to $20 per child per year, "seemed quite reasonable." But he later agreed with Mrs. Roden and Mrs. Cochrane that he might be against transporting students to shopping center quarters if his children were affected.

The board action meant that double sessions for third-graders would have to be retained through the coming school year.

SRI Researcher Leaves for Argentina

(SRI)—Ralph A. Krause, associate director of Stanford Research Institute, left this week for Buenos Aires to begin the second phase of a long term research program for the government of Argentina.

While there, Krause will be advising the Office of the President on various phases of Argentina's development problems, under contract with the Comision Nacional de Administracion del Fondo de Apoyo al Desarrollo Economico.

Krause's visit to Argentina follows an earlier survey made by Edward S. Printice, manager of international programs at the Institute, and William B. Dale, senior international economist, attached to SRI's Washington office.

Their inquiry, undertaken during May and June, was concerned with the development of research projects covering factors affecting foreign investment in Argentina, decentralization of industry, and ways to increase foreign exchange earnings.

Troop 139 Scouts Visit Big Sur

Boy Scouts of Troop 139, Menlo Park, spent the weekend of Aug. 8-9 camping and exploring in the Big Sur area.

Participating scouts were Bruce Adornato, Douglas Alburger, Bob Boeddiker, Jim Boedikker, Keith Collins, Nicky Dibert, Tom Martin, Patrick Pulis, Jim Rafferty and Mike Skala.

Paul Dibert of Troop 115 was a guest.

MRS. DAVID GROVE

Crusade Head Named For Woodside

Mrs. David L. Grove will serve this fall as residential chairman for Woodside in the annual United Crusade fund drive. Announcement of the appointment was made by Mrs. Donald Allen, chairman of the residential division in south San Mateo county.

During her seven years of residency in Woodside, Mrs. Grove has been very active in local affairs. She is immediate past president of the Woodside Elementary Parent-Teachers association. She has been president for two years of the Addie Tripp Guild of the Woodside Village church and president of the Woodside Auxiliary to the Children's Home Society. She is also a member of the Radcliffe Alumnae club.

Residential drive fill be held October 12, with a goal of $195,951 in San Mateo county.

Mrs. Grove said, "I believe that the United Crusade is an established part of the American way of life, and as such, the responsibility for its success rests upon the individual."

Mrs. Grove, her husband and child make their home at 245 Mt. Wood lane, Woodside.

Council Okays Two Variances

Two variances and a readjustment of lot lines were approved by Menlo Park City Councilmen Tuesday night.

One variance application was from E. W. Mumford, allowing him to build on a lot of 6,500 square feet in a zone calling for lots of 7,000 square feet. The lot is on Woodland avenue.

Another variance was granted to O. D. Small, who requested readjustment of side lot lines at the easterly corner of O'Connor street and Elliott drive.

Council also approved adjustment of side lines on a lot in Stanford Hills development requested by developer Harry Arnold.

All of the actions had received recommended approval by the Planning Commission.

PAYS DRAIN FEE

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners this week agreed to pay $163.20 as the district's share of an assessment for drains for the Valparaiso avenue drainage district, recently set up by the city.

County-Wide Aim:

Fire District Heads Firm Up Mutual Assistance Programs

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners this week formalized a mutual assistance pact with the Palo Alto Fire Department.

The two emergency services long have had a verbal agreement; the commissioners' resolution documents it and, in time, may become the forerunner to Peninsula-wide mutual assistance resolutions, District Chief George Carter said this week.

Chief Carter, who is a member of a mutual assistance committee of the Peninsula Fire Chief's Association, said that the request for a formal agreement came from Palo Alto's city attorney. He said it had been under discussion by himself and Palo Alto Fire Chief Wilson Merriam.

Carter, in endorsing the resolution before the commissioners, explained that there have in the past been some criticisms of mutual assistance pacts.

One of them, he said, was the possibility that mutual assistance agreements would allow some communities to operate "cheap" fire departments, maintaining only minimum equipment and calling on their neighbors for larger emergencies.

In previous years, too, hose couplings in some cases were not standard. Under a new state edict, Menlo Park has changed over to uniform hose coupling sizes and other departments in the area have done so are doing so, he said.

The chief pointed out that the mutual assistance pact would not require the district to commit its emergency equipment where it would be of little value. Thus, should a forest fire occur, only units which would be useful in fighting such blazes could be sent. The local fire department is designed primarily to operate in urban areas.

He added that when Menlo Park firefighting rigs are sent to other localities, firemen from those areas would be on hand to direct them to the scene of any emergency, and to tell them where hydrants and other facilities were placed.

Board Plans Full Unit for Ravenswood

Sequoia Union High School District trustees last week abandoned any thoughts of "piecemeal" additions to Ravenswood High School and will go full speed ahead on a 10-classroom building project at the East Palo Alto campus.

The decision was reached after trustees heard Dr. Rex Turner, superintendent of schools, report that an estimated $40,000 could be saved by immediate construction rather than dividing the program into two or three parts.

The architectural firm of Janssen, Daseking and Keller of Menlo Park was asked to immediately begin drawing up preliminary plans for expansion of the school to its ultimate size.

A time schedule for construction and possible occupancy will be set up by the architects when they are further along in their planning, Dist. Bus. Mgr. F. D. Sanford said.

Board members were unanimous in their action.

Dr. Turner said that three alternatives for future construction had been considered: Undertaking the whole expansion program immediately, finishing half of it in 1960 and the other half in 1962, or dividing the program into sections to be completed in 1960, 1961 and 1963.

He told the board they must weigh the increased costs of construction in a program that would take two or three years against the additional bond interest payments they would have to make if the whole project went ahead at once now.

The district would likely get a more favorable bid price on one project than if it were split up over a two or three-year period, Dr. Turner added.

Dr. Turner said estimates were that a minimum of $20,000 could be saved on construction costs alone with another $18-20,000 saving possible if the projects were all on one bid.

"The savings alone could pay for several classrooms," he pointed out .

Majority of the new space would be for academic classes, with one possibly used for art, Dr. Turner indicated. No new shop construction is now planned since the school has three shop rooms in operation and probably won't need more for several years, he declared. Menlo-Atherton High, he said, is a larger school and now only has two shop rooms going.

Building all of the rooms now will mean that some of them will not receive full use six periods a day until the school's population capacity is reached some years in the future, Sanford noted.

But he added that the new rooms will offer more flexibility in scheduling subjects, giving students a better chance to get the class they want.

Other work slated to proceed soon at Ravenswood not connected with the board decision last week includes construction of five tennis courts, four added outside volleyball courts, exercise rooms for boys and girls, bleacher seating, added parking and more campus fencing.

The projects will come up for bid in about a month, the superintendent said.

"They will provide much needed facilities for the area as well as the school," Dr. Turner declared. "We probably wouldn't need these all right away for school use but they will be of decided benefit to the community."

There are no tennis courts for public use at present in East Palo Alto.

Company Seeks Parking Rule

A complaint about parking on Hamilton avenue by Schlegel Plumbing Contractors, Inc., including a statement that the company would consider moving if the problem isn't alleviated, was referred by the City Council to the Traffic Safety Commission for recommendation.

In a letter to the Council, company officials asked that parking be banned on the north side of Hamilton avenue near the company operation because "myriads of children" in the area are endangered by the heavy traffic.

Library Friends Study By-Laws

Menlo Park Friends of the Library held their first board meeting of the new season at the home of Mrs. John R. Tinney last week. Main business taken up was the new constitution and by-laws of the growing organization.

Mrs. Joseph A. Scaroni, chairman, presented the constitution to the board. Serving with her on the by-law committee are Mrs. William Gropp, vice chairman; Mrs. Harold Hildreth, treasurer; Mrs. Allen Kayser, membership chairman, and Bill Patton, public relations officer.

Dolwig Named To Senate Panel

State Senator Richard Dolwig (R-Atherton) has been appointed a co-author of affirmative arguments in behalf of a Senate Constitutional Amendment which will provide for a salary increase for each member of the legislature.

The present pay is $600 monthly; the proposed amendment would call for a raise to $750 monthly.

The amendment is to be authored on a bi-partisan basis, with Dolwig working with Senator Randolph Collier (D-Yreka) on the wording.

Man Injured In Willow Road Assault

Construction laborer Sam Dupree, 1127 Berkeley street, Menlo Park, suffered a painful beating about the head by an unknown assailant who apparently used a makeshift blackjack, Sheriff's deputies reported Monday.

Dupree, 40, told officers he had just left the Anchor Bar on Willow road at 11 p.m. Sunday when he was hit on the head from behind by a man using a white handerkerchief wrapped around a hard object.

Dupree said he was spun around and socked in the face several times more. When he fell, Dupree said his assailant kicked him in the ribs and left.

A friend, Willie W. King, 331 Azalia street, took him to Palo Alto Emergency Hospital. He was held overnight for treatment of numerous facial cuts. Dupree said he didn't know the man who struck him.

Summer Sessions Final Registration Set for Thursday

Today is registration day for the fourth and final two-week sessions of Menlo Park Recreation Department's summer swimming, tennis and trampoline programs.

Registrations may be made at the Recreation office at Burgess Gym from 9 a.m. to noon. Fees for trampoline and tennis classes are $1 for Menlo Park residents, $2 for non-residents. Swimming fees are $2 for residents, $2.50 for non-residents. Classes will begin Monday, Aug. 17.

The third session, concluding tomorrow, has 400 students enrolled in the swimming, tennis, trampoline and archery classes. Of these, 257 are in the swimming program, 56 in the Hillview School tennis classes and 87 in the Burgess tennis and archery classes. The second session last month had a total of 339 signed up.

Swimming classes are held daily, Monday through Friday, and are open to all ages from seven to adults. Classes are divided into age groups and proficiency levels; beginning, advanced, intermediate synchronized swimming and diving.

Tennis classes also meet daily Monday through Friday at both Hillview and Burgess, and are divided into beginning and advanced sections according to ages, from fifth grade through adults.

Trampoline instruction is held Monday through Thursday mornings and Tuesday and Thursday evenings and is divided into age groups from fourth grade through adults.

NEW PRINCIPAL

Las Lomitas School District trustees last week appointed appointed Wilmer Larson to the post of principal at Ladera school. He had been serving as vice principal there.

Trailer Courts:

Fire Commissioners Cautious About Annexing to North

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners this week told Chief George Carter to go slow in encouraging two trailer courts north of Haven avenue, adjacent to Bayshore Highway, to join the district.

In fact, they suggested that since the area of the trailer courts appears to be in the path of Redwood City annexations, it would be well to advise the court owners to annex to that city for fire protection.

And they agreed that even if the Menlo Park agency should take over, they would do so only after adequate water mains are installed.

The courts are the Trailer Village and the Trailer Rancho, now outside of any fire-fighting jurisdiction save the county, which maintains its headquarters at Skyline boulevard and Ralston road, to the west of Belmont.

Chief Carter said that if the district were to act favorably on petitions to annex to the district, it would face lots of problems. The trailer courts are served only by small water mains and the nearest Menlo Park district station is two and a half miles away, by road, he said.

Chief Carter pointed out that the Bayshore Freeway would mean even Redwood City equipment would have a long run to the trailer courts should an emergency require it.

Corey Attends Driver Workshop

Stuart W. Corey, Menlo-Atherton High School teacher of driver education, has been awarded an Allstate Foundation scholarship to attend the foundation's driver education workshop at Stanford.

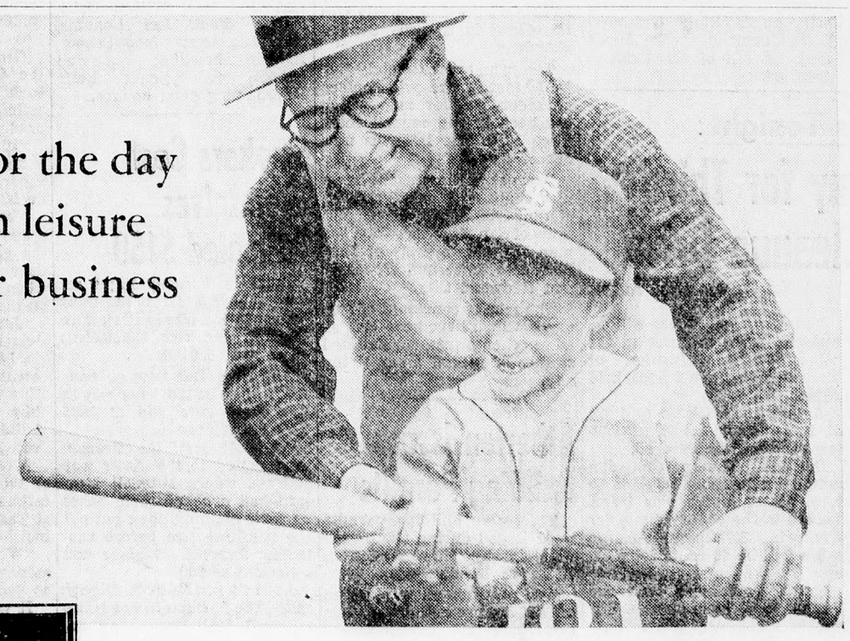

The purpose of this project is to give driver education instructors an opportunity to learn new methods and techniques of teaching in their field.

Dr. Gilbert Shimmel, Stanford School of Education, will teach the course.

The two local students and Jan Buchan of Sequoia High School represent the Sequoia region of the chapter. Other chapters represented are Palo Alto, Berkeley, Carquinez and West Contra Costa.

Mrs. Mildred Lindeman of Menlo Park, representing the teachers of the Ravenswood School District; Mrs. Ralph Todd also of Menlo Park, member of the local Junior Red Cross Committee and Mrs. Carl Danberg of the local region staff are the adults in attendance from the Sequoia region.

On the staff of the Training Center, consisting of 11 Red Cross leaders, is Mrs. Kera Janssen, Menlo Park, who is assistant director of Junior Red Cross for the Golden Gate chapter, assigned to the Sequoia and San Mateo regions.

EPA Explorer Scouts Have Unusual Specialty — 'Copters

As all Explorer Scouts must, members of Post 205 of East Palo Alto have picked a "specialty" for study—but in their case, it's a rare one.

Only one other post in the United States, according to Post 205 leader Art Ogilvie, is concentrating on this same subject—helicopters.

The proximity of Hiller Aircraft Co.—one of the pioneering helicopter firms — had something to do with the choice.

The boys had their initial contact with the subject when they offered a showing of Hiller's small helicopter, the Roto-Cycle, at the recent Scout-O-Rama in San Mateo.

And recently, they were taken on a tour of the Hiller plant on Willow road in East Palo Alto.

The Explorers explored the production line and the test flight area and then visited a veritable museum of helicopters built by Hiller in past years. Guiding them was structural engineer Ed King.

The five Scouts on hand — Bill Peterson, Doug Thomas, Mike Linden, Jon Ogilvie and Doug Sewell—and their leader first saw the machine tool section where workmen created aluminum helicopter parts on whirring lathes.

They saw inspectors checking aluminum cooling fans for the whirleybird engines, making sure, as Lee pointed out, that all edges were filed smooth to prevent cracking in flight.

The five helicopter enthusiasts gathered around a section of the plant partitioned by canvas curtains, peering in through a window at arc welders at work.

Outside the main building, King showed the boys a H-23D —the "Raven"—and told them that "All of our models are flight tested. We have a rigid inspection system here."

He showed the boys a part of the building near the flight line where delicate adjustments are made to balance the rotor blades.

Later in the trip, the five Scouts went past the final assembly line where H-3D and H-3E 'copters were being completed. The E series, Lee explained, is for military use.

Highlight of the tour, as far as the Scouts were concerned, was a look around the outdoor area where there's a real panorama of vertical-flight history.

There were the remains of the Lockheed "Pogo," the United States' initial prop-driven, vertical-flight aircraft, and the Chase Aircraft Company's two-engine "Convertiplane," which switched from vertical to horizontal flight by changing wing angle. Neither is in a flying condition.

Both are being used for various purposes in the Hiller Company's own vertical-flight aircraft program.

Stored there also was the Hiller "Commuter," a prototype helicopter with contra-rotating rotors, built back in 1946-47, the framework of the company's experimental ram-jet 'copter—and the original Hiller "Flying Platform."

Most interesting of all to the boys was the one-man helicopter which they became familiar with while showing the movie of its operation at the Scout-O-Rama — the Rotor-Cycle. The aircraft, developed by Hiller Co., is actually being built in England, Lee explained.

Scout Doug Sewell sat in the diminutive whirleybird and gingerly manipulated the controls.

"This is one I know all about," he said. "I ought to because I saw the movie enough times!"

The Scouts expect to continue their study of vertical flight with future field trips and projects, Ogilvie indicated after the tour. Explorers who weren't able to make the Hiller trip were Arnie Gilpin and Adrian Simpkins.

It's Official: County Against Annex to PA

The County Board of Supervisors has officially told the East Palo Alto Chamber of Commerce's fact-finding committee what they knew already —that the Supervisors remain unalterably opposed to ever allowing the unincorporated area to annex to Palo Alto.

Alan Carey, chairman of the committee that is compiling a report on the possible futures of East Palo Alto, said he received the letter from the board last week.

The Supervisors, he said, made three familiar points:

1. It would be "unwise" to change boundaries established for many years and also disrupt boundaries of special districts which are identical with those of the county.

2. A change would establish a "dangerous precedent" and might jeopardize the "welfare of San Mateo County residents."

3. A substantial portion of East Palo Alto may not be withdrawn under existing statutes (which say that such boundary changes couldn't take place within a five-mile radius of the county seat, i.e., Redwood City).

The committee chairman noted that the last point is one that is always brought up by the Supervisors when asked about annexation to Palo Alto and that the statutes can be amended if necessary.

Carey said he still maintained that the will of the people "should be what determines this," indicating that if enough East Palo Alto residents want Palo Alto annexation, the board should consider their desires.

Along this line, Carey said a meeting of the fact-finding committee will be held Tuesday, Aug. 18, to discuss further plans. He said that current thinking calls for a door-to-door poll of area residents on the issues of retaining the status quo, annexing to either Menlo Park or Palo Alto or incorporation.

The Ravenswood Post poll, tabulated by Chamber secretary-manager Fred Simon, brought in 115 ballots, providing some indications of community feeling, Carey said.

Simon said majority of the ballots favored annexation, but split exactly down the middle on going to Menlo Park or Palo Alto. Each had 50 votes. Most of the rest favored keeping things as they are with a lesser amount backing incorporation.

Helicopter Scouts . . .

'Hills' Baptists Plan Retreat

On Saturday, Aug. 15, the teachers and officers of the Atherton Hills Baptist Church will hold an all-day spiritual renewal and planning retreat at the Mount Hermon conference grounds near Santa Cruz.

The retreat is being planned and sponsored by the church's board of deacons consisting of Everett Carlson, Herbert Anderson, Carl Stoscher, Stan Ogren, Mrs. George Berendes, Mrs. Vernon Ogren and Miss Doris Moberg, along with the pastor, Rev. Robert Wheaton.

The Atherton Hills Baptist Church is less than a year old and has witnessed a large growth in its new location between Atherton and west Menlo Park. The purpose of this retreat is to form policies and make long range plans for the future ministry of the church.

Portola Valley Budget Set

Portola Valley School District board of trustees last week approved a $338,059 operating budget for the coming year. The general tax rate will remain at $1.90 per $100 assessed valuation, but the total rate, including overriders, will go up 19 cents to $2.482.

Main cause of the increase, trustees said, was an increase in repayment of state loans.

Seaman Visits Inland Sea

WESTERN PACIFIC (Special)—Following a recreational cruise in the Japanese Inland Sea from July 23-30, Lawrence A. Wallace, USN, son of Mrs. Verda Wallace of 1420 Modoc street, Menlo Park, serving aboard attack aircraft carrier USS Lexington, has returned to duty with the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific and continued participation in this summer's Far East midshipman training.

4-H Clubbers Win at Fair

Two Menlo Park 4-H Club members won prizes in junior food preparation judging at the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta, it was announced this week.

Carol Cornelius won three two place ribbons, four second place ribbons and one third place ribbon, and Howard Cornelius won three first, one second and two third place ribbons.

Fire Commissioners Okay Addition

Menlo Park Fire District commissioners this week okayed plans for an addition to the district's station 3 at 34 Almendral avenue, and told Chief George Carter to get bids from contractors.

A total of $10,000 has been budgeted for the job, which will see 280 square feet added to the building's area.

Commissioners discussed at length possible modernization of existing parts of the station but said some of the projects should be alternates to the main bid.

They asked that contractors making bids also detail their own specifications, on which the commissioners would pass, and agreed to meet before next month's regular meeting to award a contract, if appropriate to do so.

The addition will be in the rear of the present station, and will allow modernization of kitchen and bath facilities, an office, and a larger dormitory.

Minor Injuries In Auto Crash

Two persons suffered minor injuries but neither required hospitalization following a "rear end" collision on Willow road at Gilbert street Saturday afternoon. The two were Frank Owens, 65, driver of one of the cars involved and a passenger, Virginia LaMonto, 35. Owens suffered a nose bleed. Neither are residents of Menlo Park.

Driver of the second car involved was identified by police as Paul E. Barnes of Castro Valley.

SRI Economist To Address National Group

His topic will be "Agriculture and Industry in Planning Development," and will stress the importance of integrating industrialization and agriculture during the early stages of a nation's development.

In his seven years with SRI, Dr. Bredo has participated in economics research projects, both in the U.S. and overseas. In 1954 he was a member of an Institute team conducting a survey of the industrial economy of Israel, and in 1956 and 1957 he served as economic advisor to Pakistan.

M-A Science Department Head Moves to Foothill College

Mrs. Mary McLanathan, head of the Menlo-Atherton High School science department since that school opened seven years ago, has resigned her position to take an instructorship at Foothill College, it was announced this week.

Replacing her as head of M-A's science teaching group is Robert Congdon who is beginning his sixth year with the Sequoia district; Roy C. Rosendahl, a recent graduate of San Francisco State College, has been employed to fill the gap in the department's ranks.

Mrs. McLanathan, who is a specialist in the biological sciences, has been employed as an instructor of life sciences at the college, it was announced from the Mountain View campus this week.

She holds MA and AB degrees from Stanford University and has completed an extensive program of graduate studies beyond that. Before joining the Sequoia district in 1949, she taught at Madera and Sacramento schools.

She is a member of numerous honorary and scientific societies and is also director for the Berg Foundation for the Advancement of Science.

Congdon, who is beginning his sixth year with the Sequoia district, is 32 years old and a resident of Sunnyvale. He was graduated from the University of California and since his graduation has completed three years of postgraduate work in addition to his teaching experience.

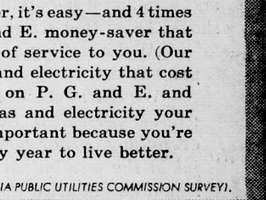

Rosendahl is taking his first position as a science teacher. He served with the navy from 1936 to 1953, before returning to college for advanced studies, Sequoia High School District officials said.

As We See It:

Underpass Opponents Still Have a Job

It looks as though all plans for a connecting link between El Camino Real and the present western terminus of Willow road are dead. City councilmen admitted as much last week, when they agreed they saw no hope for construction of an underpass, with city funds, at that site.

But before residents of the Stanford Park area and of the Linfield Oaks area start congratulating themselves on their success in "keeping a major traffic artery from their front doors," they'd better look at another couple of possibilities which can pose even more of a threat to their relative seclusion than the city's plan would have had.

For one thing, the State Division of Highways is studying some sort of a connector between Willow road in Menlo Park and Willow road on Stanford campus.

For another, the city of Palo Alto co-sponsored a recent study, culminated in the recent DeLeuw-Cather report. The latter report calls for putting 90 per cent of such an interchange into Menlo Park.

Meanwhile, a special county highway planning commission is attempting to work out some sort of a route, too.

It takes little imagination to guess that members of a county committee in Redwood City and members of any group south of the county line will have small sympathy for the problems of a couple of neighborhoods at the south end of Menlo Park.

Thus, those who plugged hardest for defeat of last spring's city bond issue might well find themselves facing new challenges and new "plans" for putting trafficways through their area. They'd better be ready with lots of good answers.

—o—

Science AND Art; Not Science OR Art

Starting off with a report from High School District Superintendent Dr. Rex Turner to the effect that there were too few interested youngsters attending Menlo-Atherton to justify the establishment of an orchestra next year, the Recorder in recent weeks has published a series of articles.

They were about scientists who live and work here, and who feel it important that the youth of the community should know that science doesn't operate in a vacuum.

At this writing, we don't know if we've made our point or not.

We don't know if that handful of scattered parents who've persuaded themselves that "the basics are everything, if our youngsters are to become successful in the pushbutton world of the future," have relented and decided that their children should keep up and build whatever interest they have in cultural subjects.

For the benefit of those who have doubts, it might be reported that the series could have been continued almost indefinitely. Those who were interviewed all said they had many acquaintances in the scientific fields who also agreed that studies in the arts and in creative subjects were no obstacles – in fact, that they enhanced – a career in science.

It would be tedious to both writers and subjects if we were to parade, say, the top echelon of scientific brains at Stanford Research Institute through a series of interviews, all sounding about the same. Readers would probably become bored, too.

Thus we terminate our series, for now; but not because of lack of candidates.

—o—

Common Ground of Interest Can Benefit 'Heights,' City

Filed recently with the City of Menlo Park was a report by the recently-organized University Heights Improvement Association, protesting against a proposed 90-foot right of way development from the Sharon estate, through the unincorporated area, to the older sections of Menlo Park.

That such a protest should be forthcoming was to be expected. Nobody – no group of residents in an area which is fairly harmonious in its aspect – likes to face the prospect of a street right of way, primarily serving other areas, chopping through their territory.

That the City of Menlo Park should propose such a link was also to be expected. Draped along several miles of the northern edge of San Francisquito creek, the city is impoverished as far as east-west arteries are concerned; it will grow more so as areas to the west and east are built up and added.

For what consolation it may be to University Heights residents, the city agrees with their association on one item: the city only wants only one east-west connector through the area; hence administrators will perforce agree that three of the four routes which have been suggested are poorer ones.

Maybe this doesn't provide a "100 per cent" ground of common interest, but it's a consideration which can't be overlooked by residents of University Heights.

Nor can the city's administration ignore the protests. University Heights, with a developing shopping center of its own and with respectable residential areas, represents at present a good entrance to Menlo Park.

TELLS US:

Dogs and mailmen get along pretty well in Menlo Park.

The dogs have been especially lenient with the postmen since the acquisition of three-wheeled "mailsters," which create a noise dogs don't seem to like and which make it a little harder to bite a postman.

For their part, the letter carriers have been getting accustomed to dogs, too; a pet hospital recently opened near the rear of the local postoffice at 560 Oak Grove avenue and the mailmen are getting to know some of the patients.

Chief George Carter of the Menlo Park Fire District has a soft spot in his heart for the plywood wainscoating of dis trict station 3 at 34 Almendral avenue.

Fire commissioners found this out Monday night, when they suggested that the plywood panels, which extend around walls of dwelling rooms at the station be eliminated.

It didn't look modern, they said.

Chief Carter appeared surprised. He hadn't considered doing anything about it, he told the commissioners, but would ask contractors how much it would cost to modernize the walls.

Chief Carter, when a lieutenant, opened the station as its first officer, in 1937. It was new and considered the last word in fire houses at that time.

Frank Bragg of Menlo Park had to ride his unicycle to work Tuesday morning, because his car had a dead battery.

"Some days," he observed, "it doesn't pay to get up. The unicycle had a flat tire, too."

Identity of the oldest man-made structure in the Menlo Park civic center is still a matter of doubt.

It was once discovered that there was a bird house in an oak tree overhanging the parking lot to the west of the police station, and it was thought to be the oldest dwelling the city has title to. But a second bird house, equally ancient in appearance, recently was observed in an adjacent tree.

Recalling that the school district has had to move a couple of its incinerators because it was found atfer they were built that smoke disturbed teachers and neighbors, Trustee Jim Black had a suggestion as to how to figure out where to put an incinerator at Laurel School:

"Maybe we should do some sneaky burning in 50-gallon drums," he said, "to see which way the wind blows."

Literally.

They shut the water off, thus killing an area of grass in front of Hillview School, as soon as the district's trustees decided, several months ago, to put a library there.

Arrival of some new playmates has compensated children of the Placitas avenue area for loss of an unofficial neighborhood "playground."

Three homes recently completed on long-vacant property at Placitas and Oak drive, now have been occupied. New residents at 3701 Oak drive are Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Roundtree, formerly of Redwood City, and their four sons, Thomas, 12, David, 10, Michael, 7, and Phillip, 4.

From San Francisco are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Voropaiff, now residing at 624 Placitas with their two sons, Nicholas, 9, and Andrew, 2.

Now residing at 516 Placitas are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lussier, formerly of San Mateo.

Municipal Report:

Map-Making Gets Better; Early Ones Left Room for 'Mysteries'

The ancient art of mapping is being refined.

Even in as comparatively short a time as that covered by the history of Menlo Park, there have come into being many refinements in the town's charts and, when all is said and done, the latest maps appear to be the best.

A perusal of some of the maps on file at city hall shows this pretty clearly; the subdivision maps of the late 1800s have no details to them, other than lot lines; the most modern subdivision maps must include details of utility line placement, location of gutters as well as streets, and much more.

For the record, one of the earliest maps of what is now the downtown area was that of the Menlo Villa development, filed with the county recorder in 1863. It shows a planned cut-up of the town into large lots both east and west of the highway.

The lot lines and street widths are just about all it shows.

City Engineering Assistant Ed Ebaugh says that he suspects the original surveys were made with "chains," a surveying device made up of 100 8-inch links and therefore 66 feet long.

Sixty-six feet is the exact width of some downtown street rights of way even today.

Probably the most famous of the early maps of Menlo Park is that which was filed in 1870. It shows the portion of the Menlo Villa lands west of the El Camino, between Valparaiso avenue and Santa Cruz avenue and extending westerly as far as what is now University drive.

The Menlo Villa Association, which had sponsored the first subdivision, had apparently fallen on hard times. The map bore the notation:

"Town of Menlo. For Sale at Auction, room 310 Montgomery street, John Middleton and Son. May 9, 1870, at 12 noon."

The price which the area—then absolutely uninhabited—got, isn't quoted. But those who might complain about their present mortgage payments might take comfort in learning that interest rates aren't what they used to be. The notation went on:

"Terms: one half cash, one half in one year with 10 percent interest payable quarterly."

The use of "chains" as a unit of measure hasn't left the scene entirely, even today, Ebaugh says. Some of the flood plains of the bayside area recently annexed to Menlo Park are still measured out in that style.

Meanwhile, he says, mapmaking has improved and with the advent of building codes and zoning ordinances, the city has been able to obtain copies of all subdivision maps, with details as to utility improvements, location of fire hydrants, and the like.

"You might say," he explains, "that we get a copy of every map that requires an official action."

Meanwhile, to help fill in the gaps in exact knowledge of the city's facilities and layout, the city has recourse to several other agencies, both public and private.

"The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has pretty good maps of all its installations, and so do the public and priwater districts and the sanitary district," says the engineer. "We can always request copies from each other."

Sometimes, however, old pipes and utility mains which never appeared on anybody's map are found to plague further development and sometimes easements which have outgrown their purposes cause legal headaches.

"I recall that there was some sort of an easement along Coleman avenue a few years ago," Ebaugh explains. "It was never on any public record, but the title company doing a deed search of the property assured us it was there, all right.

"As I recall, the city had to agree to abandon an easement which, as far as we knew, didn't exist. And as far as we could find out, there had never been any pipes under it, either."

Sometimes, a reverse situation occurs.

"A few years ago when we were widening Santa Cruz avenue west of University drive we came onto some dead lines, including one four-inch steel one.

"Nobody could tell us where they came from, where they went, or who put them down, or what they were supposed to carry."

Ebaugh says that army records of Camp Fremont might be available from the army, and that these may help solve some of the underground "mysteries."

Walter:

COLLEGIATE

Walter entered our office looking very collegiate in ivy league clothes and rooters' cap. He handed in his weather report and said he'd just been to see his cousin off to college. "It's the one who always borrows money," he explained. Since he never pays back, we thought we'd give him a proper education, one that will always remind him of his debt to us."

"Where are you sending him?" we asked.

"To a famous university," he replied, "It's called I. O. U."

Write-In Campaign Was Started

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

August 24, 1934:

Growth in the force and the strength of the write-in campaign for J. Ed. Farrell, chief of police for Atherton, for sheriff of San Mateo county, is the outstanding event of the August campaign.

Started by a group of citizins only four weeks ago, who drafted Farrell for candidacy, the move has now spread until it embraces thousands of voters in all sections of the county, according to J. D. Flynn Jr., secretary of the volunteer Farrell-for-Sheriff committee. He declares that he has found it to be the most talked-of campaign in the county.

The immediate goal is to place Farrell's name on the November general election ballot by making him one of the two high men at the primary next Tuesday . . .

Presbyterians Planned Church

August 19, 1949:

Plans to build a new structure on Santa Cruz avenue at Johnson street were disclosed this week by officials of the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church.

The proposal, still in the tentative stage, would take the place of the rebuilding program authorized last spring for the present church site at Santa Cruz and Chesnut street.

Architects' plans for the Santa Cruz-Johnson street project have been submitted to the congregation and will be presented tonight to residents of the neighborhood, who have been invited to inspect them at a meeting at 8 p.m. at the church.

Las Lomitans Adopt Budget

Trustees of the Las Lomitas School District last week approved a $743,733 budget for the 1959-60 fiscal year. It will be financed by a tax rate of $3.299, up 13 cents from last year's rate.

A $150 per teacher pay raise was granted, before the trustees adopted the budget.

The increase was not as great as predicted in February, District Business Manager Stanley Olsen said, because the district's assessed valuation rose 36 per cent over last year.

The new pay raise boosts the minimum rate for teachers to $4500 and the maximum to $8125.

County Comment:

High School Building Costs Can Be Interpreted Two Ways

By FLOYD F. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

We have no desire to get into a word battle with Ben Marsh of East Palo Alto who recently wrote a long letter to this newspaper criticizing our criticism of the spending program of the Sequoia Union High School District.

He charges us with poor factual reporting and of exaggerating the actual cost of certain projects. He particularly took us to task for our opinion that the Sequoia Union High School board of trustees was wrong in grabbing every cent it could get under the recently re-assessed property valuations, piling up a surplus of almost $1½ millions.

We agree with the letter writer that the trustees had made it known that the district could not operate on the new rate in the last two years for which a five-year $1.50 rate was voted. When the decision was announced it is also true that the district had no knowledge as far as we know that the property valuations were to be increased by $40 millions in one year.

And from what we can understand from statements the district is not intending to use the new found cash for operations but to finance new construction. Only time will tell whether this proves to be correct or not.

We have no argument to pick with Marsh's statement that the school board is obligated to provide the best education which the community can afford. There are two ideas of "what the community can afford."

Despite our criticisms, we want good schools, particularly as to courses of study and the varieties of subjects offered. We have not objected to the construction of swimming pools, tennis courts and gymnasiums as frills. Rather we consider them a very important part of today's educational program.

We do differ with Marsh's apparent "progressive education" thinking that classroom pupil loads should be reduced and that many new counselors should be put on a full-time basis. Surely ALL our students are not in need of counseling during every period. We talked to a well-known official of the district who expressed the opinion that students could and are being properly counseled in the classrooms by teachers who are more familiar with the young people than are the counselors. This does not mean that counseling, possibly on the "professional" rank would not be advisable in some if not many cases.

In writing of the cost of the site for the new San Carlos high school we estimated the site and preparation would cost close to a million dollars even before a stake is pounded for the buildings. We cannot tell how close the final figure will be to a million until the law suit now pending over blasting and dirt removal is settled.

It may run up $750,000 or $800,000 which is, after all, getting pretty close to our estimate which, we repeat, is a lot of money for a site.

Marsh also criticizes us for our figures on the Carlmont High School. He cites the figure of $3,830,261 and we have the report of the high school district "Past and Future" which lists the price at $4,296,325.65 — plus $60,000 for the original land purchase and one item at least, according to the report, the 42 by 75-foot pool which is not included. We rather imagine there are other items which could well bring the total up to the five-million figure or beyond.

Let's take a look at the bond and tax increases approved by the voters over the past eight years. Starting in 1951 a bond issue of $1,500,000 was approved for Menlo-Atherton High School. Later that same year the voters refused to increase the permissive tax rate from 75 cents to $1.25. In mid-1955 the voters approved a tax hike to $1 and voted for a bond issue of $2,250,000. Twice in 1955 and in 1955 voters turned down bond proposals of $3,200,000, $6,350,000 and $6,250,000.

On May 30, 1955, $3,975,000 bonds were approved and in 1956 voters gave their permission to increase the tax rate tops to $1.50. Then came the successful passage of a $3,860,000 bond issue in 1957 and another for $7,925,000 bonds. This makes a total of $19,510,000 in bond issues in eight years — and they tell us that two to four more high schools will be needed in the next few years.

Opinions differ on any subject and when you come to schools the tremendous school problems offer more room for argument that possibly any other.

We do notice in the district report, however, that the cost of transportation, for instance, continues to rise sharply in spite of the new schools and apparent shorter distance to travel for students. The bill for 1957-58 was for $98,266.98. We notice, too, that the district administration building cost $82,051, with the addition of $63,000 — plus $11,374 for equipment. The laundry cost $112,801 with an additional $10,000 for equipment.

Once again we will stress the fact that we want good schools like everyone else. We object to the build-up of the administration, the fact that it takes 30 to 40 acres to hold a high school for 2000 and that the high costs cannot be blamed on increased TEACHER salaries.

Editor Sees Shakespeare

Among His Souvenirs . . .

. . . Recalling some of the great dates in 20th Century history is Charles Merrill, shown in the "newspaper corner" of his family museum at his Atherton home. Topics of some of the headlines include the Titanic, the Lusitania, Charles A. Lindbergh, and the San Francisco earthquake and fire. In addition to the newspapers, Merrill's collection includes many mementos of early San Francisco and the Peninsula, where the hobbyist historian has resided all his life.

Thousands of Items:

A Private Atherton 'Museum' Contains Wealth of History

By JUDY ANDERSON

Looking for a good museum cuator?

One of the area's best unsung scholars of San Francisco and Menlo Park lore is Charles Merrill, Atherton resident recently retired from his position as chairman of the board of directors of Holbrook Merrill Company, a San Francisco firm which was established more than 100 years ago.

The Merrill family museum is proof of the family's close association with the history of San Francisco and the Peninsula.

Occupying a large, semi-enclosed area at the Merrill home, the museum is filled with countless beautifully preserved items, ranging from antique homewares to plumed chapeaux.

In addition to the display in the museum—which is only a small per cent of the collection—the Merrills have a sizeable storeroom full of things with which they periodically change the exhibits.

It is difficult to pick out items to mention—to those with an affinity for antique furniture, the ornately carved pair of occasional chairs rescued from the earthquake and fire of 1906 would be of interest. Other relics of the earthquake and fire include a huge grandfather clock, rescued along with the chairs from the Merrill Van Ness avenue mansion.

An avid "collector," Merrill has saved newspapers with historic headlines since the early 1900's. Included in the collection are specimens of journalism headlining World War I, special automobile sections dating from 1912, and special editions covering the local catastrophe of 1906.

PERSONAL MEMENTOS

Among the souvenirs kept by the Merrills are such things as the old dusters worn in the open air autos a half century ago. Mrs. Merrill has kept many of the hats which were then in fashion.

Hundreds of pieces of handwrought metal objects used long ago are placed about the museum as decorative items.

Presently being used as a decorative fence is a piece of grille-work which was originally the roof embellishment of the Crane house, built some 90 years ago, which still stands on the corner of Oak Grove and Laurel street in Menlo Park.

These pieces of wrought-iron were not merely decorative, but functional, as well. Known as "witches fences", they allegedly served to protect the home from flying goblins.

An avid record-keeper, Merrill has kept a diary all his life. His collection items serve as illustrative material for the written accounts of San Franciscania which he has incorporated in the chronicle of his life.

The Atherton resident ha lived in this area for mor than 50 years; before that h resided in San Francisco, e cept for the time he spent Stanford.

Mrs. Merrill has lived he all her life. Merrill's so Frank, and his family also r side in Atherton.

Menlo Woman's Art on Display At State Fair

Mrs. W. N. Breswick of Menlo Park will be among the bay area art exhibitors at the Sacramento State Fair this year.

On display will be her oil painting entitled "The Bosque." Subject matter is a group of trees, says Mrs. Breswick. The artist went on to say that her work defies classification. "It is neither direct representation nor abstract. This style is something new for me."

Mrs. Breswick began painting in oil two years ago. Before that, watercolors had been her medium. She stated that she waited until her two children were in school before starting oils, because "oil painting is more time consuming."

However, Mrs. Breswick is no amateur artist. She graduated from Carnegie Tech in New York with a degree in art, and she has taught art in various public schools. Also Mrs. Breswick says, she has "painted all 17 years of my married life."

WHAT'S DOING
R. R. Maloney, your Telephone Manager for Menlo Park

Deep on the ocean floor, underseas telephone cables carry calls from this country to Alaska, Hawaii and Europe. A cable ship like the one above put them there—to stay. Just imagine the problems involved if anything should go wrong with one of these cables—sending out a repair ship, locating the trouble spot, fishing up the cable. It could cost as much as $250,000! So telephone engineers had to design all the tubes and tiny electronic parts that go into an underseas cable to work continuously for at least 20 years without attention. That's the kind of telephone know-how backed by constant research, that makes your service more dependable . . . whether you call across town or across the world.

"Telephone planning is a must in the well-built home," says Mr. H. L. Arnold of Peninsula Pacific Construction Company, shown here discussing telephone planning with Mr. M. A. Cartwright of our telephone planning service.
To sell a house today, we believe we have to show real and obvious value. Planned telephone outlets and concealed wiring help do just that. These added features are marks of distinction in the home you build or buy. 12 Rec-Kiwanis Swim Meet Marks Fall As Record Number of Children Compete

Youngsters Put On Good Show By Wholesale Record-Smashing

New records abounded Sunday at the eighth annual Menlo Park Recreation Department-Kiwanis Club swim meet at Burgess Pool as the area's young swimmers proved beyond a doubt that they're getting better every year.

First, a high mark for participation was set when 180 young natators participated in Saturday's trials, eclipsing last year's record 160 by 20.

In Sunday's finals, 12 records were broken, one tied and one new one established in the 27 events, also making 1959 the leader in record-making. Last year, seven records were broken.

Lynn Thompson set two new marks in the 10 and under girls group, capturing the 25-yard freestyle in 15.1 and the 25-yard backstroke in 18.1. Vicki Kump smashed her own record in the 12 and under girls 50-yard freestyle with a 30.9, shaving almost two seconds off her 1958 mark.

Steve and Karl Englert set new records in the 6 and 10-year-old freestyle events, respectively. Debbie Adams knocked almost a full second off the 6 and under girls 15-yard freestyle, while Sandy Roth also eclipsed her own 1958 record in the 14 and under girls 50-yard backstroke with a 36.2. Bob Plate took 2.4 seconds off the 100-yard medley mark with a 1:01.0.

Elaine Sloan tied Linda Tevis' 1958 record of 17.0 in the 8 and under girls 25-yard freestyle. In a new event this year, the 16 and under boys 50-yard freestyle, Bill Ready established a mark for future swimmers to shoot at with a 24.9.

Four meet records fell in the five relays, with James Swim Club bagging two of them and the Menlo Circus Club and Menlo Country Club one each. Recs Head For Hollister For Tussle With Hawks

Locals Looking for a Win After Sixth Straight Loss

Already building for next year, the partially reorganized Menlo Park Recs semipro baseball team plays a return tilt against the Hollister Hawks Sunday at 2 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Park in Hollister.

The Recs knocked off the Hawks three weeks ago in their first engagement, 4-2.

Righthander Lyman Ashley will start for Menlo Park, with Mike Lewis standing by in relief.

Other probable starters for the Recs:

Dave Minder, c; Roger Cabell or Bob Scott, 1b; Steve Chell, 2b; Jim Fregosi, ss; Jerry Baker, 3b; Gary Hughes, lf; John Pulli, cf; Gary Davis, rf.

The Menlo Recs broke out of their hitting slump last weekend, but failed to get adequate pitching and defense and still lost two games.

Saturday they were beaten by Shanley Insurance of Mountain View 13-10 at Burgess Field and Sunday they lost to Louis Stores of Oakland 12-6 at Nicholl Park in Richmond.

In the two games Menlo slugged out 27 hits and scored 16 runs, but they made 10 errors and their pitchers allowed 24 hits. Ten of the 25 runs scored by the opponents were unearned.

Big hitters for the Recs Saturday were Jerry Reed and Bob Wendell. Reed slugged five for six, including a long home run, and Wendell bashed four for six, including a double and two triples.

Back-to-back singles with one out in the last half of the ninth inning gave Plata's Market a 3-2 victory over the Recs in a San Jose Night League game Tuesday night at Municipal Stadium.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Recs, who were beaten by Plata's 4-3 in 10 innings in their previous meeting. Menlo's season record is now 10 wins and 14 losses.

Bill Brodie of USC pitched two-hit ball for six and two-thirds innings for Menlo. Brodie, making his first start in more than a month, then lost sight of the plate and walked three straight batters. One of them scored on an infield error during a rundown and another on a double steal, tying the score at 2-2.

Menlo had scored twice in the second on singles by Roger Cabell and Brodie, combined with a pair of errors.

Bob Andersen relieved Brodie in the seventh and had no trouble until the last of the ninth when a single, stolen base and single down the right field line by Mike Felice ended the game.

Miss Whitehead won the 100-yard butterfly, placed second in the 200-yard freestyle and third in the 100-yard freestyle in the girls 16 and under events.

Pool Season Is Extended

Lack of registration for proposed adult swimming lessons has brought another change in swimming pool hours at the Ravenswood High School pool.

The pool summer season has been extended to Friday, Aug. 21, with swimming from 1-5 p.m. Monday through Sunday and from 7-9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Philco Tightens Grip on Industrial League Lead

Don Allman's brilliant two-hit pitching sent Philco Corporation into a commanding lead in the Menlo Park Recreation Department's industrial softball league as a result of action Wednesday night at Nealon Park.

Philco decisioned San Mateo Probation Department 6-1, knocking the Hilltoppers down a notch in the league standings from second to third. Norm Henry, with two singles, and Al Bodey, with a double and a single, sparked the Philco offense. Tom Anderson pitched effective ball for the losers, limiting Philco to one run until betrayed by his defense in the sixth inning. Philco can clinch the league championship by defeating second place Argonaut Insurance next Wednesday.

In the second game of the evening, Watkins and Johnson remained in mathematical contention for the championship by rapping three Stanford Research Institute hurlers for 17 hits in a 25-5 rout. Paul Butler and Dick Cullins had four hits apiece for the winners, and Cullins, Jim Sedin and Paul Piazza smashed home runs. Frank Bettencourt hurled the win, chucking hitless ball except for a three-hit, five-run third.

Rangers Knock K-Dets, 56-55; Tie for AA Basketball Crown

Menlo Park Recreation Department's Class AA summer league basketball action came to a spine-tingling, crashing close Tuesday night as the Rangers, closely trailing the league-leading K-Dets most of the season, overturned the leaders 56-55, to wind up in a throne-sharing situation. A playoff, if there is one, will be announced later.

Santa Clara's Jim Russi led the hard-charging Rangers from a 29-20 halftime deficit to tie it up 43-43 at the third quarter horn and pull it out of the fire in the dying seconds of the game. USF's steady Fred LaCour was right behind Russi with 17 for the winners, mostly on hard-driving layups the tall, experienced K-Dets couldn't stop.

Menlo Park's Fred Pegelow and Stanford's Russ Lawler dumped in 15 each for the K-Dets. Lawler keeping them ahead in the early going with a 15-foot push shot that just didn't seem to be able to miss.

Palo Alto's unbeaten A league club kept rolling along Monday night with an easy 41-25 victory over Cubberley while second-place Carlmont eked out a 29-27 heartbreaker over third-place Menlo-Atherton. Palo Alto now has a 13-0 mark and the championship clinched. The A League finished up its season last night.

Against Carlmont, the Menlo-Athertons came back like tigers in the second half after trailing 19-14 at the intermission. Carlmont's shooting fell apart in the third quarter and they scored only one free throw while Menlo-Atherton tied it up at 19-19 at the end of the third.

Frank Lee led the loser with eight markers while Ken Oaksen dumped in six.

Fremont forfeited to Woodside and Ravenswood forfeited to St. Francis in Monday night's other scheduled games.

M-A Wightman Cuppers Lose, 5-4

It was a case of almost but not quite at Sacramento Saturday when the Menlo-Atherton Junior Wightman Cup tennis team found Sutter Lawn Country Club's Wightman Cuppers too tough to handle and had to give in, 5-4.

Sutter Lawn swept the first four singles matches and then had to fight off a determined comeback by the local girls. Only a close opening doubles victory saved the day for the home squad.

Cliff Davis Drops from Tourney

Cliff Davis of Menlo Park, Northern California's medal and match play golf champion, was upset and eliminated in the first round of the National Junior Golf Tournament at the Stanford University golf course last Wednesday.

Half the field of the nation's top 128 junior golfers was eliminated the first day. Davis dropped a 2 to 1 decision to Jim Easterwood of the Inglewood Country Club of Seattle.

Davis started badly, dropping the first two holes, but came back strong to lead 2-up after nine. But he couldn't keep up with Easterwood, who fired five straight birdies to go ahead on the 12th for keeps. Davis bogied at three of the last five holes to help his own downfall while Easterwood fired a steady par in the home stretch.

Easterwood finished three over par, Davis five over.

Larry Lee of Spokane, Washington, won the championship cup Sunday. Competition was between youngsters age 12 to 17.

GLOSSY LEAVES

The big glossy leaves of Aralia sieboldi (Fatsia Japonica) are handsome additions to any garden that needs a cool-looking tropical for semi-shaded areas. But for real tropical effect, some Californians prefer the related Rice Paper Plant (Tetrapanax papyriferum), with its non-glossy finish and huge umbrella-like leaves. Inland, it occasionally freezes back in winter, but is worth trying in sheltered areas.

Local Duo Presents Original Compositions at Convention

Marguerite Williams Fenney, Palo Alto composer and pianist, and Peggy Keyes, Menlo Park dramatic reader and singer, have accepted an invitation to present some of Mrs. Fenney's original compositions at the national convention of Phi Beta, professional fraternity of music and speech.

The convention will be held Aug. 12-16 with headquarters at the Edgewater Hotel on Lake Mendota, Madison, Wisconsin. College and alumnae delegates from all parts of the country will attend.

"Music and Friendship" and "The Violet and Gold," songs which keynote the aims and purposes of the organization, will be sung by Miss Keys, accompanied by Mrs. Fenney at the formal opening of the convention. "The Hills of Wisconsin," selected as a tribute to members of the University of Wisconsin chapter officiating as hostesses, will complete their opening group of songs.

"The Open Pathway," a combination of dramatic reading and song with piano accompaniment, will be presented at a program at the fraternity's model initiation ceremony. Mrs. Fenney has composed the words as well as the music for these selections.

Mrs. Fenney is music chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 375, and is pianist for the women's guild of First Lutheran Church of Palo Alto. With Miss Keys as soloist, her original songs and piano solos have been presented in programs of various organizations of the Peninsula area.

Miss Keys was inducted as an associate member of Phi Beta by the San Francisco State College chapter last spring. She is known for her appearances in Palo Alto Community Theater productions and for her own programs of dramatic readings and music presented at Saratoga's Villa Montalvo and at numerous clubs and organizations.

Her singing of Mrs. Fenney's original songs was heard by the visiting national vice president of Phi Beta at a Stanford University chapter tea and led to a "discovery" that several of the composer's songs were of the particular type wanted for presentation at the national convention.

The fraternity's song book chairman has recommended the publication of two of the songs in an album which will be used in programs of the organization.

Following the four-day Phi Beta meeting, Miss Keys and Mrs. Fenney will spend a week visiting friends and relatives.

Good Gardeners Are Cool Now And Still Ready For Fall

It's wonderful the way certain plants can create an illusion in your summer garden: Because they look cool, they feel cool. And their presence can be very desirable indeed when the mercury goes up.

When you create a refuge from the heat, however, don't buck the odds and try to convert the hottest, driest spot in your garden. Choose instead an area set back from the full blast of the sun and increase its capacity for comfort by planting some cool-looking shrubs.

One of the best shrubs—actually a vine—for creating a cool effect is the lush Fatshedera, a cross between the big leaf Fatsia and Ivy. Plant it against a wall and train it to cover so that its deep green, large ivy-like leaves provide a refreshing background to your refuge.

Fatsia itself (Aralia if you prefer—one parent from which Fatshedera derives) will compliment its offspring in your cool-look garden. Its bold, deeply lobed leaves are crisp and cool. The mature shrub has a palm-like appearance that can be kept lower by pruning out the top growth.

Bearsbreech is a suitable companion to either Fatshedera or Fatsia, and the California Association of Nurserymen suggests you try two or three tubs of this glossy, tropical-looking perennial in a summer patio. It is best out of full sun, especially a valley sun, and can take plenty of water on leaf and root so long as drainage is perfect. It shows three-foot, off-rose flower spikes in midsummer.

It's the mark of a good gardener that he is always looking ahead. He knows that spring is too late to plant spring color and plans accordingly. Summer is no time to wonder where warm season bloom is coming from. It's either there or it wasn't planted ahead. Right now, the conscientious gardener is looking ahead to fall for the possibilities of color which come in that wonderful season.

He is bringing Chrysanthemums and late Dahlias carefully along, in shades, we hope, which will remind of autumn. He is planting a few giant Marigolds for the brilliant splashes of orange and yellow they offer. He is feeding his roses to insure a good fall show and considering new vareties with colors to match the season. And if his garden lacks them, he is shopping nurseries for shrubs and trees that will color up when the first cold nights set in.

Whether he finds these depends largely on what part of California he lives in. Inland, where a cold snap does wonders to the countryside, he will have little trouble finding what he wants. Nearer the coast, where there are few cold snaps worth mentioning, his choice is more limited. Even there, however, there are some shrubs and trees to consider.

Sure-fire fall foliage will come from such trees at the Maidenhair, Liquidamber, Chinese Pistache or Japanese Cherry. Many northern gardeners will know success with the Dogwoods and or deciduous Mollis Azaleas, but neither is overly happy in the south.

A check with the California Association of Nurserymen indicates that some Viburnums color up nicely in certain California areas, but conditions vary so much that it's a good idea to check with your nurseryman before planting a Viburnum for fall color alone. As far as that goes, it's a good idea to check with him before planting anything for fall color. If some shrub or tree will really give a good fall show in your particular garden, he's the man who knows it.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

1. Freesias and other cape bulbs will be available for planting later this month and next. The sooner they go in, the better.

2. When cutting Dahlias for display indoors, pound the bases of the stems with a hammer hard enough to crush them. This aids water absorption.

3. Take only short stems when cutting Tuberous Begonias and let the remainder of the stem stay on the plant until it falls naturally. This prevents possible rot.

4. Perennials such as Delphinium can still be sown for bloom next spring or summer. Pansies, Winter Stocks, Snapdragons and Cineraria can be seeded for cool season color.

5. Prepare the seedbed for that lawn you plan to sow next month. Ask your nurseryman about a compound that will eliminate weeds and weed seeds from the area to be planted.

GROUND COVERS

Gardeners who plant ground covers and expect them to take right over are invariably doomed to disappointment. Whatever the cover—from dichondra to ivy to ceanothus—it takes time to establish. And no matter how drought resistant it may ultimately become it needs some attention with the hose before it does.

Future Woodside Teacher:

Gretchen Snyder Is Bride Of William Cyrus Mentzer III

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM MENTZER

Palo Alto will be the future home of the former Gretchen Jane Snyder and William Cyrus (Bill) Mentzer III, who were married Sunday, August 2, at 2 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in Palo Alto.

Gretchen was given away by her father, Omar E. Snyder. Dr. R. Marvin Stuart conducted the double ring ceremony.

Gretchen was attired in a full length gown of Swiss organdy, decorated with Venice cotton lace. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a wide scoop neckline and the skirt ended with an accented hemline. Her matching silk illusion veil was held in place with a lace headband, accented with pearl flowers. White stephanotis, lilies of the valley and butterfly orchids were combined to form the bridal bouquet. For the traditional "something borrowed," Gretchen carried a linen handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Frank A. Woods.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was her sister, Margaret, selected to be maid of honor. For her frock the attendant chose Swiss organdy over pink taffeta, accented with white edging. She completed the costume with a head piece of white horsehair decorated with pink streamers and carried out her colors in a bouquet of white carnations and pink baby roses.

The bridegroom's sister, Molly, was bridesmaid and Sally, another sister, served as junior bridesmaid. They wore costumes identical to that of the maid of honor and also carried bouquets of white carnations and pink baby roses.

BEST MAN

Bill asked Edward L. Farmer to be his best man. "Ted," as he is called, is a student at Stanford University. Ushers were Bernard Nelson and Donald Johnson of Menlo Park and George Baer, a Rhodes scholar at Oxford University, England.

Large white chrysanthemums and snapdragons decorated the candles along the aisle of the church.

Mrs. Snyder greeted more than 175 guests at her home, wearing a beige and brown flowered silk frock, fashioned with a full skirt. She accented the costume with bone white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The benedict's mother, Mrs. William Cyrus Mentzer Jr., chose a champagne dress styled with a lace bodice and full chiffon skirt. Brown accessories and a brown cymbidium corsage completed her costume.

White bows and pink bells decorated the garden gate and the two colors were carried out in flowers placed about the home.

Alice Taylor of Menlo Park handled the guest book. Serving refreshments were Margaret Landsdorf of Hillsborough, Donna Hardesty of Berkeley and Mrs. John Hussey of Concord.

Before leaving for her honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, Gretchen changed to a tangerine dress with matching jacket and white accessories and a corsage of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Gretchen is a graduate of Menlo-Atherton High School and of Pomona College, Claremont. As a member of Pomona's Class of '58, Gretchen was elected to Mortar Board, senior womens' honorary, and held membership in May Court and Harwood Court, the latter in her junior year.

The new Mrs. Mentzer plans to teach social studies at Woodside High School this fall.

Bill is a graduate of Palo Alto High School and Stanford Class of '57. He is now attending Stanford Medical School and holds membership in Nu Sigma Nu, medical fraternity.

At Fleishhacker Estate:

"Autum in Japan" Slated September 30

Final plans are being made for "Autumn in Japan," the eighth annual St. Pius Fashion Show and Tea, to be held September 30, featuring the new fall fashions.

The event is to be held at "Green Gables," the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Fleishhacker, 329 Albion road, in Woodside.

The home and beautiful grounds were designed and landscaped by Green and Green, outstanding architects of their era, and pioneers in the field of modern architecture. They converted a barren hilltop to a garden scene of European and Oriental beauty. The Fleishhacker home has a touch of the same uses of woods as typified by the hand-steamed shakes used to achieve the curving Oriental type roof line of the home. The shakes were stained green from which the name "Green Gables" derived.

The 75-acre estate is reached by a two-mile elm covered, landscaped driveway which passes a small artificial lake.

One of the unique attractions of the lower gardens is the Roman pool, framed by the stately colomade in the background.

Mrs. Ralph K. Davies is the honorary chairman, with Mrs. John J. Masar as general chairman. They will be assisted by Mrs. Fred F. Anderson, Mrs. Esmo P. Dal Pogetto and Mrs. Richard P. Briggs.

Other committee heads are Mrs. Joseph Walker, Mrs. Victor I. Renal, Mrs. Jack Feyock, Mrs. John McCarthy, Mrs. Robert Garratt, Mrs. Harold W. Tillinghast, Mrs. I. P. Romanolo, and Mrs. Leonard A. McDonald.

Australian Holiday for Menlo Couple

For their summer vacation the Charles Youngs of Menlo Park flew to Australia for the winter season "down under."

The couple combined business and pleasure in Melbourne and Sidney. They also spent time in Darwin.

Next was Manila, then Hong Kong, where the Youngs spent a week. From there they flew to Tokyo and took a ride up the newly constructed Tower of Tokyo, which, says Mrs. Young, is equivalent to the Eiffel Tower of Paris.

While in the Japanese capital, they also attended a performance of the Kokusai all-girl dance review.

McClellans Vacation in So. Calif.

The Wakeman McLellans joined their son, Wakeman Jr., and his family for a ten day vacation in Santa Barbara. All are from Atherton.

While in the Southern California city the two families attended the annual Santa Barbara flower show as well as the national horse show.

With the two couples were the McLellan Jr. children, Muff, 8; and Cay Cay, 4. The McLellans also spent time visiting friends.

Trying Out Decorations . . .

. . . for the forthcoming Tally Ho! party are Mrs. J. F. Hammerslag (left) and Mrs. Joseph E. Carty, who is decorations chairman for the affair. The annual benefit sponsored by the Woodside-Atherton Junior Auxiliary to the Stanford Convalescent Home will be held at the Menlo Circus Club on August 22, and will be staged in a "Fiesta" mood. Highlighting the party events, all open to the public, will be a horse show and a preview of fall and winter fashions.

Joan Riecks Takes Vows In Palo Alto Ceremony

In a ceremony conducted at the First Presbyterian Church in Palo Alto on Saturday, August 2, Joan Riecks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Riecks of Menlo Park, became the bride of Ronald Kambestad of Burlingame. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Kambestad of Burlingame and the late George I. Kambestad. The Rev. Paul R. Schearrer officiated during the vow exchange and Joan was gixen in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose a gown of white nylon embroidered tulle over taffeta. The full length gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a Sabrina neckline, and the bouffant skirt featured an apron effect in the embroidered lace tulle. Her fingertip veil of white illusion was attached to a lace crown accented with seed pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of butterfly orchids and stephanotis with a white prayer book.

Pat Voss of San Francisco served as the sole bridal attendant. She wore a ballerina length gown of chiffon in romance blue. Her gown was fashioned with square neckline and short sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Veiling in a matching blue shade accented he rsmall crown and she carried a bouquet of forget-me-nots, roses and carnations.

Standing with the benedict as best man was George Moen of Sunnyvale and Jack Graf of San Jose served as usher.

BRIDE'S MOTHER

Witnessing her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Riecks wore a gown of Delft blue with a matching jacket and matching accessories. Mrs. Kambestad chose a sheer print gown in an orchid shade with white accessories.

Following the vow exchange, a reception for the more than 75 guests was held in the parlor of the church.

Before departing on her honeymoon in northern California, the bride changed to a yellow cotton dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. When the young couple return, they will establish their new home in East Palo Alto.

Joan is a graduate of Sequoia High School and the College of San Mateo. She is affiliated with Chi Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, a business women's organization.

Ronald is an alumnus of Polytechnic High School in San Francisco and also graduated from Heald's Business College.

Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Meub recently returned from Balboa Island on what they termed a "vacation for the kiddies."

Earlier in the year the Atherton couple took a trip to New Orleans and Nassau by themselves, but decided that their four children should also have a vacation. Karen, 11, Kristin, 9, and Daniel Jay, 6, enjoyed boating and swimming in southern California. Also on the trip was the youngest Meub, nine-month old Eric.

Later in the summer the family plans a vacation at Lake Tahoe with the Donald Johnsons of Atherton and their children, Douglas, 9, and Paige, 7. The two families plan to stay near Meeks Bay.

South Visited By Localites

"The sights" in southern California were on the vacation itinerary of Dr. Robert E. Berner and his family.

The children, Robert, Richard and Diane, enjoyed Disneyland and Knotts Berry Farm. The family visited Dr. Berner's sister, Mrs. William Klaustermeyer, in Fullerton, and also toured Los Angeles.

AWARD WINNER

The judges of the textile division of the San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta awarded second prize to the entry of Mrs. Mary Delfino of Menlo Park.

Auxiliary Sets Fashion Show

J. J. Moores Home From Oregon Trip

Twelve days in Oregon comprised the first half of the Joseph J. Moore vacation for 1959.

The Menlo Park couple and their daughter, Pat, age 12, visited with Mrs. Moore's brother, Ray Shellhorn, in the town of Keno, Ore., near Klamath Falls.

Enroute home the family stopped at a resort along the Oregon coast, where they picnicked and spent time swimming.

"We had a good rest in the north," Mrs. Moore commented, "and didn't do much sightseeing this time, as we go up there quite often."

After arriving in Menlo Park, the Moores left home again to head for Big Basin.

Pat will attend Green Oaks School, East Palo Alto, this fall. Previously, she attended Belle Haven School in Menlo Park.

FREDERICK LAGERGREN of Menlo Park recently vacationed for a week in Santa Cruz with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cleveland, former residents of Menlo Park.

"Paella" a Favorite Recipe of Mrs. Lea

(This is the first of a series of articles which will feature special recipes recommended by local women.)

If you're looking for something different which will add a European flair to an informal dinner party, try this fish-and-fowl stew, an authentic Spanish recipe used "with great success" by Mrs. Edward H. Lea of Menlo Park.

The dish is called "Paella," and is used frequently in Spain, according to the Spanish artist who taught Mrs. Lea how to prepare it. It can include a variety of different types of fish, according to "whatever happens to be handy."

Mrs. Lea serves the dish with a green salad and French bread with a light dessert of ruit or cheese. The following recipe will provide generous servings for 6-8.

PAELLA

- 1½ doz. raw prawns
- 1½ doz. live clams
- ½ cup olive oil
- 3 small broiling chickens, cut up
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 2 or 3 cloves garlic, mashed
- ½ tsp. Spanish saffron
- 2 tsps. salt
- 2 cups rice, cooked
- 1½ cans cooked tomatoes with juice (No. 2½ can)

Clean prawns, set aside. Scrub clams and rinse in several baths of cold water, but do not open shells. Set aside. Pour half the olive oil into frying pan and slowly brown the chicken. In the remaining oil, saute chopped onions and garlic until tender but not brown. Put prawns, clams, chicken, onions and all remaining ingredients into a Dutch oven and simmer gently, uncovered, over a low flame until rice is cooked (30-40 min.). If it becomes too dry before rice is cooked, a little more water may be added. If moisture remains when rice is done, put the pan into a moderate oven.

The dish may be prepared en casserole instead of on top of the stove. If this method is preferred, prepare it in the same way, baking it covered in a 325 degree oven for about 1½ hours. It may be served in the baking dish.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH DOMINGUES
—Du Charme photo

A nuptial Mass at Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Woodside, at noon, August 1, followed the marriage vow exchange of Joanne Joyce Bass of Menlo Park and Kenneth Domingues of San Francisco.

Joanne is the daughter of the John T. Basses of Menlo Park. Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Domingues of San Francisco are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Rev. Warren Woods of Redwood City performed the double ring ceremony.

BALLERINA LENGTH

For her wedding Joanne chose a ballerina length gown of peau de soie. The fitted bodice was fashioned from chantilly lace and cut with a sabrina neckline and three-quarter sleeves. Lace, sequins and pearls decorated the skirt. Joanne chose a matching silk illusion veil attached to a cap of lace and peau de soie, appliqued with seed pearls.

The bridal bouquet was composed of white lilies of the valley centered with white Amazon lilies.

Penny Bass served as her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a princess style aqua silk organza dress with cap sleeves and matching net picture hat trimmed with flowers and steramers. She carried a bouquet of pale yellow and soft brown fuji chrysanthemums.

Dressed identically were Joanne's two bridesmaids, Julie Galli, a classmate at University of San Francisco, and Judy Andrews, a friend since the bride's days as a student at Sacred Heart Convent.

BEST MAN

Kenneth asked his brother, Ronald, to serve as best man. As ushers he chose David Nanick and William Leal, fellow students at USF.

White gladioli, stock and chrysanthemums decorated the church.

Mrs. Bass welcomed more than 275 guests at a reception in Redwood City. She wore a beige peau de soie sheath dress with matching accessories and a turquoise straw hat and corsage of brown and beige orchids.

The benedict's mother reversed the colors worn by Mrs. Bass, as she chose a turquoise crepe sheath dress with beige accessories, a brown hat and matching orchid corsage.

UNDISCLOSED

Before leaving for an "undisclosed destination," the new Mrs. Domingues changed to a beige linen dress with green accessories and orchid corsage.

The young couple plans to establish their home in Los Angeles.

Joanne's schools are Sacred Heart Convent, Menlo Park, and University of San Francisco. She is the sister of John Bass of Menlo Park.

Kenneth attended Sacred Heart High School in San Francisco and USF, where he met his wife. He is the brother of rMs. Barbara Medina and Robert Domingues, both of San Francisco.

Coxes Are Home From Continent

"It's good to be back," said Mrs. Clarence M. Cox of Menlo Park, after returning from a six-week tour of Europe.

Mrs. Cox and her husband spent two days in New York City and then sailed on the Queen Elizabeth. Once abroad, they traveled by bus, plane and train to visit France, Germany, Austria, Holland, Italy and England.

One of the high points of the trip, says Mrs. Cox, was a ballet the couple attended at the opera house in Vienna.

While in Venice, home of Mrs. Cox' father, the Atherton couple took an evening gondola ride on the canals. In Paris, they toured the famous night spots.

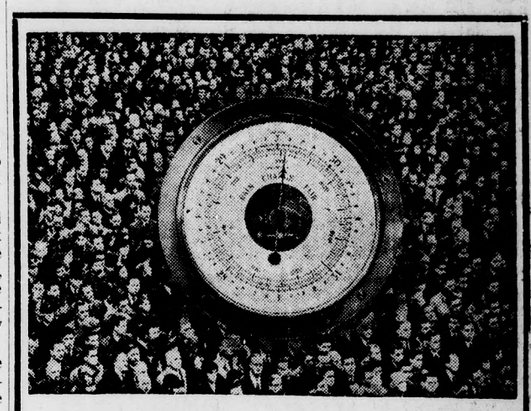

"In Monaco we were surprised to find a miniature Coney Island across the street from the palace of Prince Ranier," Mrs. Cox commented.

She added that she and her husband especially liked the area around Lucerne, Switzerland. They also viewed the council chambers at Geneva, scene of the recent peace talks.

Bagrashes Sight-See In New York City

Flying to New York City recently for a three-week vacation were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bagrash of Atherton and their two daughters, Wendy, 16, and Jill, 14.

During their sojourn they spent their days sightseeing and touring the famous landmarks of New York, as well as visiting with relatives of Mrs. Bagrash.

WHO makes the financial weather?

Millions of investors own the stocks of America's corporations that are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Many investors, many ideas about stock prices at any moment. On this auction market for securities, competition between sellers to sell, between buyers to buy, results in a consensus of individual price opinions, determines the financial weather: whether fair and higher — whether cloudy and lower.

Tomorrow's financial weather cannot be known today. We don't know whether prices will be higher or lower. But we do have a lot of information to help you adapt the "weather" to your investment needs. It's yours for the asking. There's no obligation.

Longs Visit Scenic Spots

Famous scenic spots in the western states were on the vacation agenda of the E. N. Longs of Menlo Park.

Traveling with their parents were Carole, 13, Kathy, 11 and Sandra, 10. The family toured Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado, then drove up to Wyoming to see Dinosaur National Monument, the Grand Tetons and Yellowstone National Parks.

The Longs camped as they drove along the western roads.

While in Wyoming, the Longs visited Mrs. Allan Hicks, sister of Mrs. Long, in Thermopolis. They went on to visit another sister of Mrs. Long in Madison, Wis., Mrs. George Robbins.
